For 26, George, June 2, 1932.

[G.O. No. 781, Public (Special).]

No. 151.—The following notification of the Government of India is republished:—

FAMILY PENSION.

Under the 1924 Act No. 1932.

No. F-4017, R. II.—The Department from the Secretary of State, No. 1-Accents, dated the 10th April 1932, with the enclosures, relating to the Indian Civil Service Family Pension Rules, is published for general information:—

To THE GOVERNMENT OF THE MADRAS PROVINCE AND THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA IN COUNCIL.

My Lord,

I have the honour to acknowledge the reply received from your excellency to the circular letter issued in October last, regarding proposals for the distribution of the surplus reported by the relation, as at 31st March 1932, of the Indian Civil Service Family Pension Scheme.

2. The reply received, both in this country and in India, indicates that the proposals are approved by a large majority of the members, and I have therefore decided to approve them, without alterations. I enclose herewith the amendments, the measures mentioned.

3. The permanent addition to the basic rate of pensions will in future be at the rate of 50 per cent in place of 20 per cent as heretofore.

4. The basic rate of pensions will, with further notice, be subject in addition to a temporary increase of 10 per cent. The total pension payable will thus remain at a rate 50 per cent above the basic.

5. Monthly contributions will in future be at the following rates, according to the member's date of entry:—

For entries before 31st April 1914, 75 per cent of basic rates.

For entries between 1st April 1914 and 31st July 1925, 67½ per cent of basic rates.

For entries between 1st August 1925 and 31st March 1928, during that seven years 112½ per cent of basic rates, thereafter 100 per cent of basic rates.

For entries after 31st March 1928, 112½ per cent of basic rates.

6. Subscribers who entered before 1st April 1914 will be relieved of payment of contributions after 50 years' service. This will apply to subscribers who, on retiring under the Provisional Retirement Rules, elected to continue contributions under option D or G.

7. Subscribers marrying after retirement, who take advantage of the preference of rule 33 will in future pay in place of the deceased an amount (hereafter prescribed in the Fourth Schedule, enhanced Schedule) at a rate 100 per cent of the applicable to as heretofore marrying before retirement. The deceased will, however, receive pension not only to the wife but to the children, if any, of the marriage. Subscribers who have elected after retirement and post retirement for wife and children at the rates heretofore prescribed in Schedule D will will be entitled to a refund of the amount paid in arrears of the new rule, but without interest. Subscribers who have paid arrears for a wife, but have not reported the birth of a child or children, may receive payment for such child or children on paying the difference between the old and the new rates of donation without interest.

Subscribers to non-service who have been paid arrears after 25 years will be liable for the enhanced donation applicable to retired subscribers subject to the proviso that the total amount so paid shall not exceed that which they would have paid under the normal rates applicable to Class I subscribers.

2. Payment will be paid towards the age of 25 on production of proof that by reason of physical or mental infirmity they were not at that time or at any subsequent time capable of earning a living.

3. In view of the fact that the Secretary's statement of 1936 asserts that the arrears amounted to some £100,000 on 1st January 1936, I have decided that they shall have retrospective effect from that date.

I enclose a copy of a resolution passed by me in Council making the necessary alterations in the rules to give effect to the foregoing decisions.

4. I request that you will publish this Dispatch with its enclosure, in the Gazette of India, and advise me by telegram of the date of publication.

I thank you, Sir, for,

My Lord,

Your Lordship's most obedient humble servant,

(Signed) WINDHAM BROS.

There were four calm hours during the month. The rainfall corresponding to the above numbers is represented by a SSE wind, blowing with a uniform daily velocity of 32.1 miles.

The striking feature of the weather during the month was the exceptionally heavy and widespread rainfall to the Presidency during the early part and the absence of prolonged high temperatures in the latter part. The observed rainfall was caused by a cyclonic storm which developed in the south-west of the Bay of Bengal on the 10th. Passing South-west of Mysore it moved across the Presidency and was shown near Odieta on the morning of the 15th. Probably being weakened and pushed in by a temporary advance of the monsoon on the 14th the storm coast it occurred and weakened into a depression which lay over Mysore on the 16th. Moving thence in a north-easterly direction it passed out again into the north Bay of Bengal where it intensified and ultimately crossed the Andaman coast. The strong south westerly winds which were blowing into the Bay at the time of the commencement of the storm were for a time diverted on to the south of the Presidency by the storm with the result that widespread and heavy rain fell on the north-east western coast. The total rainfall at Madras was 3.24 inches or nearly four times the normal amount.

Although actual hot weather conditions were none, established after the influence of the storm had passed away, on very high temperatures were experienced in the south of the Presidency during the middle of the month of the heat by the earlier rain. Temperatures above 100° were recorded on eleven days at Madras, the highest reading being 104° 5 on the 10th.

Thunderstorms were recorded on four days, distant thunder on one other day and lightning on five other days.

The previous season in which nearly similar weather conditions were experienced in the month of May was the year 1928.
